When the public is educated as to the several dangers and the causes of fires, only then can we get at the bottom of the needless fire loss. Today we see accounts of fires each day on account of gasoline, kerosene, hot ashes, etc. It is not that the people want fires, but they are caused by ignorance or carelessness due to ignorance of the dangers.

Miss Ellen J. Abbott and Mrs. Geo. T. Bradbury of Malden were visiting in town on Tuesday.

Mrs. Joseph H. Lowd attended the commencement exercises at Dartmouth college this week.

Mrs. James Saunderson of High street spent Sunday at the home of her son, George Saunders, in Malden.

The Cross Coal office will be closed evenings during July and August with the exception of Saturday nights.

Rev. D. E. Burtner, D.D., of Lynn, will preach at the Free church on Sunday, morning in exchange with the pastor.

The final supper of the season of the teachers of the South Church Sunday school will be held this evening at 6.30 o'clock.

Mrs. Mary Long of Essex street sailed on Tuesday on the S. S. Laconia for England where she will spend several months.

George Rhodes, son of T. E. Rhodes of this town, is overseeing the construction of a million dollar electric power plant in Fall River.

Miss Gertrude Randall of Elm street who returned home last week from Bridgewater Normal school, is now spending a few weeks in Maine.

At the meeting of St. Matthews lodge, A. F. and A. M., held last Monday evening, degree work was carried out. Refreshments were also served.

M. and Mrs. J. Harold Melledge attended the re-union of the Lawrence High School Alumni association held on Wednesday evening of this week.

Miss Dickey, Miss Helen Follansbee and Miss Maria Cobb of the Food Shop have gone to Kennebunk beach, Maine. They will return to Andover in the fall.

Mrs. Amy Briggs and Miss Lucy Allen left town Monday morning for Connecticut where they are to spend a month. During August they will visit in Maine.

Mrs. F. Linwood Garrison and family and Miss Elizabeth Dwight of Philadelphia have come to Andover for the summer. They will occupy J. C. Sawyer's house.

The various departments of the South Church Sunday school, with the exception of the primary room, will be closed during July and August, the last session for the present season being held next Sunday.

Among the well-known clergymen who will preach at the Nahant church during the summer season are Dr. Frederic Palmer, and Rev. James Austin Richards of Boston, formerly of this town.

The infant daughter of the late Mrs. Mabelle Foster Bangs, formerly of this town, whose death occurred a month ago, died last week at the Ear and Eye Infirmary in Boston. Burial was in Groveland on Saturday.

The body of a man, later identified as Richmond H. Brown of Lawrence, was found in the Merrimack river, west of Pine Island and near the Andover shore, late Saturday afternoon. The body was taken in charge by the Andover police, and it is believed that the man committed suicide. On Monday the remains were removed to Lawrence by Undertaker Colby.

Rev. Samuel D. McConnell, D.D., D.C.L., will have charge of the Parish of Christ church this summer. Dr. McConnell was formerly rector of Holy Trinity church, Middletown, Conn., of St. Stephen's, Philadelphia, of Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, and is now rector emeritus of All Souls' church, New York. He is the author of "Sermon Stuff," "A History of the American Episcopal Church," "Christ," "The Evolution of Immortality." He will preach at Christ church next Sunday morning.

The Echo club of the Baptist church observed ladies' night on Monday evening. There was a good attendance of club members and their friends, who greatly enjoyed an illustrated lecture given by L. D. Sherman on Photographing Wild Deer. The story of Mr. Sherman's recent trip in which he had remarkable success in getting views of the deer under unusual circumstances proved very interesting. Following the lecture a social hour, including the singing of songs and serving of refreshments, was enjoyed.

Mrs. Richard P. Whitten is ill at her home on Elm street.

Howard Cates and Kenneth Foster spent Sunday at Nantasket beach.

Clifford MacDonald and family of High street are to move shortly to Somerville.

One of the drivers employed by Brooks F. Holt, the local ice dealer, came to grief this week, when he was arrested in Lowell for stealing a team from Mr. Holt's stable. The man is now out on bail.

The change in the Boston and Maine train service went into effect on Monday of this week. The summer edition of the Townsman Telephone has been issued and copies can be secured at the Bookstore.

At a special meeting of the school committee and the selectmen held on Monday evening, the resignation of Charles G. Willard as a member of the school board was accepted and John C. Angus appointed to fill the position until the next town meeting.

The children of the primary department of the South Church Sunday school enjoyed an outdoor party last Saturday afternoon at the church. Games and refreshments furnished ample entertainment for the large number of children present.

Children Aid Summer School

The contribution of $2.00 made this week to the fund for the Summer School brought to notice the very commendable effort made by thirteen school children to aid the cause by presenting a little drama and entertainment in the Locke field on Elm street last Saturday afternoon.

The affair was planned by Helen Donald, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Donald of Elm street, and carried out entirely free from the aid or supervision of grown-ups. It consisted of a Flower Pageant, the chief features being a drama called the "Children's June Play," and several flower dances. The stage which had been arranged under a big tree was decorated with paper plumes and formed a pretty setting for the children's games and dances.

The proceeds of the afternoon came from the collection of the small admission fee of five cents from each person in the audience and also from the sale of lemonade.

The children who took part were as follows: Helen Donald, Martha Buttrick, Agnes Dugan, Rita Tufts, Marion Hill, Ada Pitman, Beatrice Buxton, Charlotte Baldwin, Beatrice Goff, Rita Stack, Ruth Cates, Allan Buttrick, George Platt.

The gift of the two dollars was much appreciated by the committee in charge of the Summer School, not alone for its intrinsic value, but especially for the spirit of helpfulness which prompted it.

Held Successful Sale

The Christian Endeavor society of the South church held one of their successful sales and entertainments in the church vestries on Tuesday evening. A large number of people attended, and their patronage as regarded the good things on sale was very generous.

A play entitled "A Rice Pudding," was presented by members of the society in a very entertaining manner, the cast being as follows:

Mr. Richards	Lester Towne
Mrs. Richards	Florence Mears
Mr. Richards	Florence Curtis
Dr. Thwaite	Geo. Richardson
Ellen O'Shaughnessy	Grace Stevens

Those in charge of the tables were as follows:
Candy table: Ada Cole, Marion Barnard, Margaret Keene, Maria Fairweather.

Cake table: Marion Dearborn, Mary Caldwell, Florence Abbott.
Ice cream table: Frederick Cheever, William Abbott, Howard Cates.
Grab table: Edith Clarke, Edith Kendall, Margaret Rogers.
Punch table: Fannie Erving, Florence West, Anna Holt.

Swimming Pool Opens Monday

The summer season of the Phillips Andover swimming pool opens Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, for the class for women who prefer afternoon to evening. The afternoon classes are for women, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 4 to 6; girls, Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, 2 to 4; boys, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2 to 5. The evening classes are for men, Monday, Wednesday and Saturday at 7.30; for women, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at 7.30.

Arrangements have been completed and Mr. Murray, the swimming instructor at Phillips Academy, will be in charge, thus ensuring competent instruction for beginners.

Fourth of July the pool will be open all day as follows: For boys, 8 to 9.45 a.m.; for girls, 10.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m.; for women, 2 to 4 p.m.; for men, 7.00 p.m.

Besides members of the classes, others may avail themselves of this opportunity free of charge at these hours. The regular single admission will be twenty-five cents. After Monday, season tickets may be secured at the gymnasium.

goes without saying. That it is a surrender is not yet quite clear—more likely it is a concession thrown out well in advance of the time which everybody feels sure is coming when concessions will no longer be of any use.

Because he is not in sympathy with the force "seemingly in control of the Baltimore convention," Mr. Bryan declined to accept the chairmanship of the committee on resolutions unanimously tendered him. Senator John W. Kern of Indiana was elected, as Mr. Bryan twice refused the honor.

In refusing to accept the chairmanship Mr. Bryan said: "I appreciate the compliment, but I am not willing to act as chairman. I am a believer in harmony, but I think that the committee ought to be in harmony with the convention, and I am not in harmony with the organization of the convention, nor of the national committee which controls the organization. We used to have two kinds of Democrats—progressives and conservatives; we now have only one kind, progressive, but we find there is a wide difference in the definition of the word 'progressive,' and I do not define progressiveness as it is defined by a majority of this convention, and, believing in harmony, I want to be in harmony with the convention, and I desire to be more free to represent the minority sentiment. I do not say that there will be a minority report, but it would not look well for the chairman of the committee to take in a minority report. It may be necessary for me to take in a minority report. I do not know that it will, but I do not want to place myself in that awkward position, and for that reason I decline."

This resolution was unanimously adopted by the convention at the night session.

NOMINEES ALL HOPEFUL

Two-Thirds Rule Keeps Hope Alive In All Breasts

With the nomination sessions near, presidential gossip fills the air. It seems to be admitted by all that Speaker Champ Clark will go into the convention with a distinct advantage over all the other candidates. Mr. Bryan's friends refuse to consider him out of the running and say his defeat for the temporary chairmanship was in no sense a test of what his strength would be as the presidential nominee.

The Bryan followers are hopeful the nominating fight may go to a fourth or fifth ballot and believe that in that situation many delegates would go to him.

Dark horse talk is now more general than ever.

This was partly due to the fact that the New York delegation has determined to vote for Mayor William J. Gaynor on the first ballot. The evident purpose of this is to get a test among the candidates and something of a true line on the situation. Others interpret it as meaning that Mayor Gaynor may be boomed for the vice presidency.

The Woodrow Wilson people, who stood by Mr. Bryan almost to a turn in his fight for the temporary chairmanship, are expecting his support in return when it comes to nominating and apparently base their hopes of success upon some such action.

It is realized by all that the two-thirds vote necessary to nominate in the convention can only be secured by a combination of some of the candidates or by a "break" or "stampede" of the delegates.

The various leaders are firm in the belief there will be no stampede and say they do not even fear Mr. Bryan himself in that respect.

Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany boss, is today the dominating factor of the convention. Though he stands by Thomas F. Ryan, the Belmonts and other rich New Yorkers, the manager of every candidate is flirting with Boss Murphy to deliver the ninety votes of the Empire State.

Friends of Governor Foss of Massachusetts "papered" the Baltimore armory with an appeal to the Democrats to nominate the Massachusetts man for the presidency. Thousands of copies of a pamphlet giving Governor Foss' record, and a circular headed "Foss the Only Democrat Who Can Win," were distributed to catch the attention of the delegates as they arrived.

The delegates and visitors spent considerable of their time criticizing the national committee for having brought the convention to this city. Hotel accommodations are absolutely inadequate and the restaurants are unable to feed the hungry hordes on time. The people of the city have tried hard to make up by hospitality for the limitations of the city, but this does not affect the average delegate and visitor and he is loudly voicing his objections to the discomfort.

From Strike to Strike

Boston, June 27.—Many of the professional strike breakers, secured by the Boston Elevated company, have quit and signed agreements to go to Buffalo, where a street car strike is imminent.

Boston, June 27.—The stock company owning the Boston Herald has purchased the Boston Traveler. July 1st they will issue the Boston Traveler and Evening Herald.

REBEL LEADER CRYING ENOUGH

Report Circulated Orozco Now Seeks Amnesty

WOMEN LEAD IN FIERCE RIOT

Said Mexican Cabinet Considered Clemency For All Rebels—Such Action Believed to Be Wise—Women Lead Mob to Rescue Mexicans—Guilty of Violating Neutrality Laws—Police Lay Out Twenty-Five

Mexico City, June 27.—An unconfirmed report is in circulation to the effect that Orozco, rebel leader, had communicated to President Madero his willingness to surrender and asking for terms for himself and men. It is believed the subject was discussed at a cabinet meeting. With this report came the news from a source heretofore dependable that amnesty without reservation is to be extended to all political offenders after the expected collapse of the revolution. The administration officials propose to thus celebrate the downfall of their enemies and at the same time prove their magnanimity.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 27.—Spurred on by the shrieks of women leaders a mob of several hundred Mexicans and sympathizers made what the police declared to be an organized attempt to rescue Ricardo Flores Magon, Enrique Magon, Anselmo Figueroa and Librado Rivera, alleged leaders of the recent revolution in Lower California, as they were leaving the courthouse for jail after being sentenced to one year and eleven months' imprisonment for violation of the neutrality laws. When the Magons appeared the crowd rushed on the five officers guarding them. A riot call was sent in and several wagon loads of policemen were soon on the scene.

Relatives and friends of the convicted men, urged the crowd on, they themselves leading the attack. Reinforced, the police began to use their clubs and within five minutes more than twenty-five rioters lay on the pavement half-unconscious from blows on their heads. Five women, together with fourteen men, were placed under arrest and the crowd dispersed.

HARASS THE MARINES

Cuban Rebels Keep Our Men Watchful All Night

Santiago, June 27.—Captain Gulick, commanding the United States marines at El Cobre, reports that his whole company is on guard every night and constantly exchanging shots with the insurgents. The marines have intrenched outposts mounting automatic guns. At night a bomb was exploded near the American outposts at El Cobre mines, but did no damage. The report that the insurgents had burned the town of Bayari is untrue. Cueto, a small village, was destroyed by insurgents believed to be under command of General Iveton.

The government troops have had an engagement with the column under Estenoz at Calabazas. The rebel loss was ten killed and many wounded. A large number of horses and much ammunition was taken. General Estenoz is reported to be fleeing with a small following. The regulars also attacked a band of insurgents in the vicinity of the Juragua mines, killing several of them.

Havana, June 27.—An official note from the palace states that President Gomez conferred with representatives of the Liberal party, who gave him assurance that they would support the administration. A conspicuous feature of the meeting was the absence of Alfredo Zayas, the vice president.

HANFORD INQUIRY BEGINS

Congressional Investigation Committee Reaches Seattle

Seattle, June 27.—Congressman James F. Graham of Illinois, Congressman Edwin W. Higgins of Connecticut and Walter L. McCoy of New Jersey, delegated by the judiciary committee of the house of representatives to take testimony on the impeachment charges preferred by Congressman Victor L. Berger against United States District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford, have arrived from Washington. The hearings, which will be public, probably will begin today. Judge Hanford has engaged counsel to protect his interests before the committee.

Pennsylvania Men Vote Strike

Philadelphia, June 27.—The result of the ballot taken by employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad company on the question of a strike was laid before S. C. Long, general manager of the company. Officials of the labor organizations said that the vote had been almost unanimous in favor of a strike.

Roosevelt and Bryan Buttons

Chicago, June 27.—"Roosevelt and Bryan" badges have made their appearance in Chicago. Several hundred of them in the shape of long ribbon streamers have been distributed

MYSTERIOUS MURDER

Beheaded Body of Unknown Woman Found in Blackstone River

Woonsocket, R. I., June 26.—The headless body of a woman, whose identity is a mystery to the police, was found in the Blackstone river near James Grove. The body is thought to have been in the water two months or more, and apparently had been weighted down with a heavy stone when first thrown into the river, but the ropes which held the stone had become loosened and allowed the body to rise.

The woman was about 35 or 40 years of age, and in life would have weighed about 150 pounds, the police say. The hands had been tied behind the back and every particle of clothing removed to conceal the identity. The manner of the severing of the head indicated little or no knowledge of surgery, according to physicians.

ALMA-TADEMA DEAD

Noted Painter Born in the Netherlands Became an Englishman

Wiesbaden, Ger., June 26.—Sir Laurens Alma-Tadema, the famous English painter, is dead here. He had been suffering from ulceration of the stomach and was undergoing the cure. He was in his 77th year.

Sir Laurens Alma-Tadema was born at Dronrich in the Netherlands, Jan. 8, 1836, but was later naturalized in England. He received gold medals for his paintings from most of the leading academies of Europe and was decorated with most of the chivalric orders.

NO CLUE TO MYSTERY

No Woman Missing in or Around Woonsocket

Woonsocket, R. I., June 27.—The police are still without a clue to the identity of the headless body of a woman which was found in the Blackstone river.

The river was dragged in an effort to recover the head. So far as the police can learn no woman is missing from this city, and they made inquiries of nearby cities and towns with regard to missing women.

ROOSEVELT MEN

CALL ON BRYAN

Henry of California and Crane of Chicago Visit Baltimore

Baltimore, June 26.—Francis J. Henry of California, one of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's fighting lieutenants in the Republican national convention, and Charles R. Crane of Chicago, who helped finance the Roosevelt campaign for the Republican nomination, were in consultation here last night with William J. Bryan of Nebraska for three-quarters of an hour.

Henry and Crane reached Bryan's apartments by a private elevator and were gone again before their visit became generally known. No one could be found who would discuss the incident.

National Cash Register Loses

Cincinnati, June 27.—Judge Holter in the United States district court overruled a demurrer to the indictments filed by attorneys for the thirty officers and employees of the National Cash Register company of Dayton, who, it is alleged, engaged in a conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Vermont Minister For Salem

Salem, Mass., June 26.—Rev. Harry J. Newton, pastor of the Congregational church in Bradford, Vt., has accepted a call to the Crombie Street Congregational society in Salem, and will enter upon his duties here the first of September.

The following are the events open to the public. No entrance fee will be required. 100 yards, 440 yards, half mile, one mile, and three mile race, football doubling race. Events open to members are: 100 yards, quarter mile, sack race, potato race, and the three-legged race, throwing the cricket ball. The following teams have entered into the five-a-side football contest: Methuen, Lawrence, Clan McPherson, Andover United, and the Lawrence Olympics.

The committee in charge of the sports will meet at the club house on Sunday, June 30, at two o'clock sharp, for the final arrangement of prizes.

SHADOW PICTURES.

Photographs That Can Be Made by the Aid of a Magnet.

It is possible to produce, with the aid of a magnet, shadow photographs resembling those made by action of the X ray. Either an electromagnet or a permanent magnet will answer the purpose.

Place a key or other iron or steel object on the sensitive film of an ordinary photographic plate, then bring the poles of the magnet near the other side of the plate and keep them there for five minutes or more. Upon developing the plate a shadow picture of the key or other object, as sharp and well defined as any of the X ray pictures, will be found.

By this method only iron or steel or other paramagnetic substances may be photographed, but the sensitive side of the plate is turned toward the magnetic poles and a disk of iron nearly as large as the plate is placed on the other side then shadow pictures of any nonmagnetic objects, placed on the sensitive film facing the magnet, may be obtained. The operations are, of course, conducted in a dark room.

With an electromagnet capable of lifting a weight of 100 pounds one scientist has made such pictures through two inches of interposed wood. He has also obtained shadow pictures with a compound steel magnet weighing little more than a pound.—New York Tribune.

344 DELEGATES REFUSE VOTE

For Second Time Taft and Sherman Head Ticket—First Time in History of Party Both Officials Renominated—Massachusetts Delegation Again Centre of All Eyes—Roosevelt Men Silent in Places

Chicago, June 24.—At 9:25 Saturday night William H. Taft was nominated for the second time for President of the United States. The nomination came after a roll call in which the bitterness of the convention was reflected. Clash after clash resulted. Roll calls were challenged. One hour later James S. Sherman was renominated for vice president, after the nomination had been turned down by Hadley of Missouri, Deneen of Illinois and Borah of Idaho, when proffered it by the Taft leaders.

The convention was in an uproar. The Massachusetts delegates defied "a steam rolled" decision of Chairman Root, who held that when the vote was challenged it was not sufficient to answer "present." The ruling was appealed. The ruling on the appeal was not pushed and did not go before the house.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Second Time Nominated by His Party

The Massachusetts men were in the exact centre of the building, standing on their chairs, shaking their fists, hissing and hurling execrations at the chairman, who had retired to his desk. When thirty policemen were called they quieted down and voted.

Many of the Roosevelt men, following the instructions of the colonel, sat silently in their seats while the votes were being cast, taking no part at all in the proceedings.

Walter G. Harding of Ohio, presented the name of the president to the convention. John W. Wamaker and Nicholas Murray Butler were among those who made seconding speeches.

M. B. Olbrich of Wisconsin made the chief nominating speech for La Follette.

The vote for president was: Taft, 561; Roosevelt, 107; Cummins, 17; La Follette, 41; Hughes, 2; not voting, 344; absent, 6. Total, 1078.

The vote for vice president was: Sherman, 597; Borah, 21; Merriam, 20; Hadley, 14; Beveridge, 2; Gillette, 1; absent, 71; present but not voting, 352. Total, 1078.

VICE PRESIDENT SHERMAN

First Republican Vice President Ever Renominated

The names of President Taft and Senator La Follette were the only ones presented to the convention formally. The votes for the others were cast by delegates who insisted on following their instructions.

A "valedictory" statement was read in behalf of Colonel Roosevelt asking them that his name be not presented and that his delegate sit in mute protest against all further proceedings.

test against all further proceedings.

A great majority of the Roosevelt delegates in the Illinois and all in the Missouri and Idaho delegation declined to follow this advice, but Colonel Roosevelt's sway over the delegations from California, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Virginia was all but absolute.

Most of the delegates from these helping to give Mr. Roosevelt an independent nomination at another hall later in the evening.

The split in the convention occasioned no surprise. It was but a fulfillment of the predictions that had been made during the past several days.

The closing scene of the convention were marked by counter demonstrations for President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt.

At times during the balloting the convention was in great confusion. At no time was there an indication of a walkout of Roosevelt delegates. The convention adjourned at 10:30.

To gauge the full Roosevelt strength add the 107 votes cast for him to the 344 present and not voting; add also the seven Idaho voters than went to Cummins, give him half of the ten absentees and we have a total Roosevelt vote of 463. Taft picked up a few Roosevelt votes, all in the south.

With the nomination of Taft and Sherman, a new record was made, since never before has the Republican party renominated a vice president. Mr. Sherman probably owes this unique distinction largely to the declaration of any available insurgent leader to fight with the Old Guard for second place on the Taft ticket.

*Chairman Root had ruled that since the Massachusetts delegates-at-large had refused to name their choice for president he would call upon the alternates-at-large to vote. This decision meant that eight alternates-at-large, who were all elected pledged to Taft, would be permitted to vote. It was a fine taste of the steam roller methods.

When the roller stopped the score stood 20 for Taft and 16 not voting. It would have been six more for Taft had the alternates-at-large been on the job. As it so happened the only two alternates-at-large present were B. H. Anthony of New Bedford, for George W. Coleman, and E. W. Adams of Worcester, for Alvin S. Weeks of Fall River.

The twelve delegates from Maine and the two progressives from the Second Vermont district withheld their votes on both roll calls and Chairman Root did not enforce a poll of either delegation, thus further emphasizing the contrary course adopted with respect to Massachusetts.

BRYAN FORCES SCORE TALLIES

Platform to Be Considered After Nomination Is Made

JAMES PERMANENT CHAIRMAN

If Progressive Platform Not Adopted, Bryan Will Present One—Kern Is Chairman of Committee—Bryan Gives Harmony Talk—First Ballot a Test of Candidates—Foss' Friends Working For Him

Baltimore, June 27.—The Wilson forces won a victory in the national Democratic convention at the night session when the minority report from the committee on rules, abrogating the unit rule, was substituted for the majority proposing to recognize the right of state conventions to apply it.

This had the effect of giving Wilson 18 votes from Ohio and may cause a break in other delegations. It was hailed as a great Wilson victory in a session that had been marked by a prolonged Wilson demonstration.

Wilson also made inroads into Clark's own state, and seven Missouri delegates voted yes. A chorus of hisses and "boos" greeted Senator Stone's announcement of 29 votes for the majority report.

Bryan's home state, Nebraska, went solid for the Wilson report, and a round of cheers swept the hall when the vote was cast.

Jeers and hisses greeted Charles F. Murphy's announcement that "New York votes 90 no."

The minority report was substituted 565 1-2 yes to 495 2-5 no. Not voting or absent, 33.

It was the culmination of a day of Bryan victories.

It was generally reported about the convention hall last night that a number of western Clark delegations that cast their votes for Judge Parker for temporary chairman were beginning to "hear from home" on account of alleged desertion of the progressive cause. It also was common gossip that there was a good deal of feeling between the Bryan and Clark forces.

In the committee on credentials the Clark forces clearly controlled. The sitting delegates from South Dakota pledged to Wilson were unseated in favor of the Clark contestants, while six uninstructed delegates from the District of Columbia were unseated in favor of six instructed for Clark.

Baltimore, June 27.—Refusing to subside even after their first day's defeat, the progressives in the Democratic national convention engaged in a desperate effort to reverse their setback, and succeeded in regaining enough of their lost ground to send their hopes soaring.

Instead the progressives forced the selection of Ollie James of Kentucky by the committee on permanent organization to be permanent chairman. The first victory was in reversing the program of the conservative steering committee, which intended to continue the temporary organization and make Judge Parker the permanent chairman.

Although instructed for Champ Clark in the presidential fight, James is a progressive and one of Bryan's closest friends. His keynote speech is expected to be strongly tinged with progressivism.

Bryan repudiated the Murphy-Taggart-Sullivan attempt to mollify him and refused election as chairman of the resolutions committee.

He also made it plain that unless an out-and-out progressive platform is adopted he will return a minority report and carry the fight to the floor, or even to the voters of the country if forced to do so.

Bryan forced an unprecedented step by having the resolutions committee demand by a vote of 41 to 11 that the platform be not adopted until the candidates are named. The effect of this will be that even though a conservative should get the nomination he will have to run on a radical declaration of principles.

In place of Bryan, John W. Kern of Indiana, the commoner's closest friend, was made chairman of the resolutions committee.

Because the credentials committee was not ready to report the roll the convention "marked time" on the second day, listening to fervid oratory by party leaders and the real business did not begin until 8 o'clock at night.

PLATFORM TO WAIT

Will First Select Candidate and Then Build the Platform

The platform will be made for the man at Baltimore this week, not the man for the platform. Such is the decision of the resolutions committee, a decision so unusual, if not unique, as to overshadow for the moment much of the speaking which is rife concerning the various candidates for the nomination which will determine the planks on which the Democratic party shall go before the voters this fall. That this step is a concession to Mr. Bryan and the radical element

FAIREST BRIDES OF JUNE

Brilliant Social Events Attending Local Weddings of Week.
Miss Frances Tyer and Miss Margaret Cole
Among the Season's Brides.

CRAWFORD-TYER

About three hundred guests were present at the wedding of Miss Frances Louise Tyer, daughter of Mrs. Horace H. Tyer, and Mr. Douglas Gordon Crawford of Andover, at Christ church, on the afternoon of Saturday, June 22. Dr. Frederic Palmer, rector of the parish, officiated. The church was simply decorated with palms and white peonies. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Henry G. Tyer, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with Duchesse lace, a tulle veil fastened by orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor was Miss Cornelia Williams of Woodstock, Vt., and the bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Buss of Medford and Miss Ruth Ord Mason of San Diego, Cal. The color scheme of the wedding was carried out in the gowns of the attendants and each carried a bouquet of these roses.

Mr. Herbert Guttererson of New York was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Louis Palmer of New York City, Frank Fitt of Northfield, John Gale Hun of Princeton, N. J., and Leslie Hastings of Boston.

Following the ceremony a garden reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Tyer receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Crawford.

TASKER-FLETCHER

A marriage in an automobile just over the state line in New Hampshire after a hair-raising ride from Haverhill, and then an equally speedy return to that city, were the rather unusual circumstances under which Miss Iva Fletcher, who has been one of the teachers in the Indian Ridge school during the past year, and William Tasker of Pittsfield, N. H., were joined in wedlock on Monday of this week.

Late Monday afternoon the couple arrived in Haverhill and, armed with a marriage license obtained in New Hampshire, the groom and bride drove in a hack to the residence of Rev. Dr. M. D. Wolfe on Jackson street.

Dr. Wolfe said the marriage license was useless in this state, and the city clerk was appealed to in the hope of obtaining a special permit, but this was impossible. The couple, who had planned on remaining there only long enough to be married, having purchased their tickets for a bridal trip to New York and Philadelphia, became alarmed.

Dr. Wolfe then remembered that he possessed a permit to marry in New Hampshire, and this solved the dilemma. An automobile was secured and the minister, with the couple and their attendants, jumped into the car and made record time in hastening to the state line in Plainfield, N. H.

The boundary stone was no sooner passed than the auto was stopped and, standing in the front seat, Dr. Wolfe performed the marriage ceremony with the couple and their attendants standing in the tonneau.

As soon as the ceremony was over, the driver turned his machine about and broke all kinds of speed laws in heading for the railroad station, landing the couple there just in time to catch the train for Boston to connect with the train for New York.

MICHELSSEN-HARWOOD

Another wedding of interest to Andover people and especially the members of Christ church parish, which took place on Monday afternoon in New Bedford, was that of Benjamin Franklin Michelsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Michelsen of New Bedford, and Miss Isabelle Harwood, daughter of Mrs. John Harwood, also of that city.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother and was performed by Rev. Percy Gordon, rector of Grace Episcopal church. The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. James S. Macomber. Rev. George Michelsen, the groom's brother, was best man. The bride wore ivory satin, with trimmings of pearl and lace, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was given away by her brother, John R. Harwood of New Bedford.

Mr. and Mrs. Michelsen will come to Andover tomorrow and take up their residence on Chestnut street. The groom is organist and choir-master at Christ church. Although he has been in Andover but a comparatively short time, he has won many friends here whose best wishes and congratulations are extended to him and his bride.

HARDY-TOZIER

The following account of a wedding of interest to Andover people is taken from the Washington (D. C.) Herald of June 25.

"Miss Flora Ethel Tozier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Tozier, and Mr. William Abbott Hardy of Andover, Mass., were married last evening in Calvary Methodist church in Columbia road.

"Preceding the ceremony, which was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. J. T. Ensor, was a short musical program by Mrs. Warner Gibbs, soprano; Miss Anne Tuohy, contralto; Mr. R. Woodland Gates, tenor; Mr. Edward Calladay, barytone; Mr. Ralph Goldsmith, violinist, and Miss Iverna Child, pianist. Mrs. Gibbs sang 'Beloved, It Is Morn' and 'Oh! Lovely Night,' from the 'Tales of Hoffman,' with violin obligato, and Mr. Calladay sang, 'Come to Me.' The quartet, Mrs. Gibbs, Miss Tuohy, Mr. Gates, and Mr. Calladay, sang the wedding march from 'Lohengrin' at the entrance of the bridal party. The bride wore a gown of white chameuse, satin trimmed, with shadow lace, which was caught with orange blossoms on the skirt, and a tulle veil held with a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a shower of lilies of the valley. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Joseph Peake, wore pale blue crepe meteor caught on the skirt with pink satin roses, and carried pink roses. The maid of honor, Miss Evelyn Hardy, of Andover, Mass., sister of the bridegroom, wore yellow satin, draped with white marquisette, which was caught on the skirt with yellow roses, and she carried yellow roses. The bridesmaids were Miss May Maxon, Miss Mabel Roberts, Miss Regina Bartlett, and Miss Florence Bryant. Two of the maids wore deep rose satin, draped with white marquisette, which was caught on the skirt with roses, and they carried roses of the same shade. The other two wore Nile green satin, draped with white marquisette, and caught with pale pink roses. Dr. Malcolm McTernan of Andover, Mass., was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Roy Hardy, Mr. Philip Hardy, brothers of the bridegroom; Mr. Robert Tracy, Mr. Edward Anderson, and Mr. Joseph Neilson.

"Following the ceremony there was a small reception at the home of the bride's parents. The decorations in both the church and the house were of roses and palms. Mrs. Tozier, mother of the bride, wore black satin. "Mr. and Mrs. Hardy will make their home in Orange, N. J., where they will go after a short wedding trip. The bride is a well-known pianist both in Washington and in the South.

"Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis T. Hardy and Miss Louise Hardy of Andover, Mass., father, mother and sister of the bridegroom, and Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm McTernan of Andover, Mass."

SANDERS-MURPHY

The marriage of Miss Amanda Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy of Lewis street, and J. Warren Sanders of Haverhill, took place Tuesday afternoon at 6 o'clock in the South church, Rev. F. R. Shipman officiating.

The bride wore white crepe de chine and carried bride roses. The maid of honor was Miss Anna Murphy; the bridesmaids were Miss Lavinia Kelly and Miss Elsie Vian. George Lawrence was best man. The ushers were Charles Murphy, Edward Murphy, Benjamin Lawrence and Elmer Brodnax.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. After a trip to Portland, Me., Mr. and Mrs. Sanders will take up their residence in Haverhill.

HEAD-COLE

Wednesday evening at the home of her parents on Locke street, Miss Margaret Cole, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. John N. Cole, was married to Dr. Ralph Dudley Head of Pittsfield. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock by Rev. William G. Poor of Salem, Mass., an uncle of the bride. The wedding party included only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Cole, as maid of honor, and Ward Benedict Head of Rochester, N. Y., brother of the groom, was best man. The bride's younger sister, Dorothy Cole, was flower girl, and the wedding march was played by her aunt, Mrs. Wm. Leslie of Melrose. The ushers were Sanford J. Head, brother of the groom, and Fred D. Whitney, both from Rochester, N. Y., and Philip P. Cole, a junior at Yale, and brother of the bride.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white satin, draped with silk marquisette, and a bridal veil, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor carried Killarney roses, and the flower girl's basket was laden with sweet peas. The ceremony was performed under a canopy of mountain laurel, which, with pink roses in profusion throughout the house, made the sole interior decorations.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held, attended by nearly four hundred invited guests. The grounds were enclosed with canopies and illuminated with electric lights and Japanese lanterns, and the added charm of the brilliant moonlight night made the setting for the reception most effective. Music was furnished during the evening by the Columbian orchestra, and Page of Lowell catered.

The guests numbered not only the many friends in Andover and vicinity, but others from Rochester, New York, Pittsfield, Cambridge, Salem and other places. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. Cole and the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. Addison W. Head of Rochester, N. Y., the parents of the groom. Especially welcome guests were Mrs. Eunice B. Head of Rochester, the grandmother of the groom, and a grandparent of the bride on either side, Mrs. Abby M. Poor of Andover and George S. Cole of Andover.

Cut glass, silverware, pictures, rugs, furniture, and other articles in great profusion made up a display of wedding gifts which attested to the many friends of the recipients. Following a brief wedding journey, the newly married couple will take up their residence in Pittsfield, where Dr. Head is located as a practicing physician.

Obituary

MARY E. WILKINSON

The passing of Mrs. Mary E. Wilkinson, for several years a resident of Andover, has removed from the life of the town a woman much beloved by all who came in contact with her, and one whose lifelong strength, energy and wisdom were devoted to the happiness and welfare of those around her.

Mrs. Wilkinson was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Trowbridge of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and was born July 13, 1823. On April 1, 1842, she married William Wilkinson, a member of the Poughkeepsie Bar, and spent the whole of her married life in that city. There her five children were born.

Ready at all times to work for others, she was active in church work and philanthropic activities. She possessed great strength of character in contrast to her delicate physique. She was always brave and calm and ready for any emergency.

When her oldest son, Robert F. Wilkinson, was seriously wounded and seemingly on the point of death after the battle of Cedar Creek, Va., she went to him and entered his room as calmly as if she had parted with him only the night before. Her son recovered, but her husband, who had accompanied her, was stricken with typhoid fever and died soon after their return home.

In 1895 Mrs. Wilkinson came to Andover to reside with her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Bacheider, whose love and devotion made her old age a happy one until Mrs. Bacheider's death at Christmas time, 1909. She bore this last and bitter trial with the same courage that she had shown in the loss of her other dear ones.

Her own turn came after a long life rounded out almost to ninety years.

Mrs. Wilkinson is survived by her two sons, William Wilkinson of Chicago, and Edward T. Wilkinson of Denver, Col.; and by her sisters, Mrs. John G. Boyd and Miss Eliza Trowbridge of Poughkeepsie, and by her grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Student Gathering at Northfield

Students from Japan, China, South America, Europe, Canada, and even one from Russia who can hardly speak English, are present at the student conference at Northfield.

The large delegation of Chinese have made themselves most popular. They play peel and tennis with the American students; they join in with their Chinese songs at the evening "sings"; and those who speak English best interpret for a few that do not know the language yet. They have a ball team of their own which promises to make the other college delegation teams put up a stiff fight.

The conference after six days of Bible and mission study and platform addresses works up to a climax Thursday as only a student gathering can. The great patriotic celebration has Peace for its subject this year, and J. A. McDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, as its speaker. Oliver F. Cutts, the former Harvard football star, has been appointed presiding officer of the celebration. Five hundred college men all giving their yells at once, the banners of one hundred colleges and schools hanging from every available spot in the large auditorium, fantastically dressed delegates, and a howling mob rushing around a bonfire that can be seen ten miles away, give but a faint picture of the closing patriotic celebration.

The delegates were glad to hear the announcement that the popular platform speaker, Rev. G. A. Johnston-Ross was to be one of the chief leaders at the General Conference for Christian workers which takes place in August. Mr. Johnston-Ross has been at Northfield before and has left a deep impression with all those who have heard him. He has just accepted a professorship in Union Theological Seminary of New York City.

Played at Piano Recital

The pupils of Walter Goss gave a most pleasing pianoforte recital in the vestry of the North Tewksbury church on Tuesday evening, June 25. Among his pupils in Andover are Miss Lucretia Flint, Miss Olive Hardy, Emma Boutwell and Bernice Boutwell. The vestry was well filled with friends and parents and the entire program was very creditably given.

MASONIC SERVICE

You have little hope of success for any person in any line of effort who is not ambitious to do well. Yet there are multitudes of youth and of adults who are content to drift along as easily as possible in their daily tasks—seeking only the money wage and the pleasure they can gain, with little or no ambition to excel. "Corinth had such people who did not care to take this first degree in life's ascent. Judging from appearances there are some, I fear, even in Andover. Wherever found, they are the discouragement of parents, teachers, employers and friends.

"Paul's advice was sound common sense when he wrote, 'Seek to excel.' It is echoed in the motto of Pundard's last class, 'Age quod agis.' Do what you do. Learn your lessons thoroughly—make yourselves proficient in your trade—do your level best in whatever you undertake.

"In the office of the world famous surgeons, the Mayo brothers of Rochester, Minnesota, hangs the motto, 'If you do anything better than anyone else, even if it be but the making of a mousetrap, the world will wear a path to your door.' These brothers have proved its truth in their own experience. From all countries men come to their hospital to be treated or to study their successful methods. Their aim was not fame, but excellence, and the fame came with and from it.

"Paul's advice is the spirit of the whole New Testament. In another letter he writes, 'Whatever things are true, whatever things are honorable, whatever things are just, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things. Phil. IV: 8.

"Peter writes to another company of friends, 'Giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity. 2 Pet. I: 5-7.

"The great Master Himself sets which is in heaven is perfect. Matt. V: 48.

"If that seems too high for attainment in our human weakness and imperfection, it is an inspiring standard at which to aim. In keeping with it—a genuine brother-man whom we are proud to think once walked the streets of Andover and studied in Phillips Academy wrote: 'Build these more stately mansions, O my soul,

As the swift seasons roll.
Leave thy low-vaulted past;
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast.

Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea.

I trust that every one of us has taken our first degree and is earnestly, perseveringly seeking to excel.

It, "The second degree is implied in before us the highest goal of ambition when he says, 'Be ye therefore perfect even as your Father the closing words of the text: 'Seek that ye may excel to the edifying of the church.' It is excellence sought for the help of others. Not many years ago, a young man of high family, and of superior education was about to graduate from a course of medical study in England. The problem of locating for the practice of his profession was agitating his mind. With his advantages of culture and friends, should he settle in one of the large cities where money could be rapidly made and social advantage be enjoyed, or should he go where he was most needed and could be of most help? Should he look out for number one chiefly or take number two into consideration? Should he seek to excel for his own gain alone or for the edification of others?

"He chose the latter course and gave himself to the relief of the suffering and needy sailors of the North Sea.

In making this choice Dr. Wilfred Grenfell took his second degree as a 'Fellow Craftsman' in life's progress. The remarkable results he has accomplished for the fishing fleet of the north sea and for the people of the Labrador region by his brotherly spirit and the wise use of his varied talents has won honor and love and fame for him on both sides of the Atlantic. He did not do it for fame, but his excellence in helping others naturally brought fame to him.

"It is well to seek excellence for its own worth, but it is better to seek it for the help of others.

"Two motives may inspire to excellence—self-interest or the welfare of our fellowmen. It makes a great difference in any life which motive controls.

"They were seen in the lives of Napoleon and Washington—Napoleon with unbounded ambition seeking to excel, but mainly for his own advancement and power and glory; Washington, giving the aid of his wealth and influence and power of leadership to the cause of the American colonies with little care for his own fame. He is recorded as saying, 'If I know my own mind and could offer myself a living sacrifice to the butchering enemy, provided that would contribute to the people's ease, I would be a willing offering and die by inches to save the people.'

"Disraeli and Gladstone were contemporary statesmen in English politics. Both sought to excel. But the present generation gives Gladstone the higher honor of the two, because of his unselfish use of his talents for his nation's good.

"We easily recognize people who take this second degree. They are found in every line of life, and how welcome they are!

McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

Strikes

After the strike in Lawrence, begun chiefly over the fifty-four hours a week law for women and children, passed by a Democratic Legislature and signed by a Democratic governor, was what they call won by the working people, won at immense loss to all concerned, one would imagine that everybody was tired of strikes. Yet the smouldering heat of the strike in January has broken out into an ugly fire in June.

My sympathy was with the strikers over the fifty-six hours and fifty-four hours per week, and the peremptory manner in which the workers were told that they need not expect to be paid the same wages working only fifty-four hours was, in my opinion, a mistake, and was what we call playing politics. At that time I ventured to say that young readers of the Townsman might live to see a forty-eight hours law for women and children and wages no lower than now. No one should prophesy unless they know. The facts regarding factory legislation for the past eighty years show clearly that the wages paid for sixty-nine hours' work were much lower than are now paid for fifty-four hours.

I recollect the change from sixty-nine to sixty-six hours, and at that time many of the workers in Scotland were so ignorant as to object to the change as it would reduce the wages! Some firms in the textile trade did for a few months deduct the three hours, but before a year after the passing of the law, wages were higher for working sixty-six hours. It would be tedious to go over all the British factory legislation, tracing the causes and results of the 55-hour law today. I only state that today more wages are paid than when sixty-nine hours was the law of the country.

It might interest some of our politicians who play politics if I state how the factory acts in Britain

"The lawyer who uses his legal ability to secure justice and right, whatever his fee; the physician who uses his skill from genuine desire to relieve the sick and suffering, whatever their ability to pay; the clergyman who in sincere love for his fellowmen lives to help them conquer their temptations and bear their trials and realize God's love and aid, whatever his salary or parish; the tradesman who does his daily work that it may meet the need of those who seek his skill whatever the wage paid; the merchant who looks out for the interest of his customers as well as for his own profit; the employer and employee who take each other's welfare and interest into consideration as well as their own; the athlete who plays for his team or his school as well as for his own enjoyment and glory, whatever the position given him on the field—these all are second degree men seeking to excel for the sake of others.

"This motive of right ambition is sorely needed in the world's life today.

The other man! How often his interests are neglected! Self-seeking without regard to others' rights is the disgrace of our politics. It is the greatest danger to the stability and peace of our business, and is one of the chief causes of the ruin of homes and of individual happiness.

"How long would liquor saloons and gambling dens and houses of ill-fame be kept open if every person sought to make his life a blessing to his neighbor? How long would the present unrest and antagonisms in the business world continue, supposing every one—employer and employee—sought the other man's interest as his own? How long would the great reforms needed in state and national life be delayed if all officials and lawmakers served with an eye to the real good of the people and of the nation at large, and not supremely for their own fortunes or the interests of their ring or of their particular section of the national domain?

"We have much to cheer our hearts in the great works of philanthropy carried on in our day, in the numerous hospitals, and other institutions for the relief of suffering and for the prevention of disease; in the increasing number of excellent men and women who are using their knowledge and skill and executive ability for the help of their fellowmen; but the millennium will not come until all love their neighbor as themselves and are controlled by the spirit of the World's Good Samaritan in the use of their talents of whatever kind, seeking not to be ministered unto but to minister. Are we willing to take this second degree?

"III. "As I interpret the text, its last words suggest also a third step or degree for the highest success in life. 'Seek that ye may excel to the edifying of the church.'

"Make yourself as able as possible for the help of the church. Our ascent to this will depend much upon our idea of the Church. What does Paul mean by 'the church'? In his day the church (in the original Greek, the assembly) was the company of men and women who believed in God, as revealed by Christ and were working to bring His kingdom on earth.

"The Hebrews had called themselves 'God's people' and had endeavored to build up a visible theocracy on earth. Paul and his fellow-believers in the new light which Jesus had brought were trying to win others to Jesus' teachings and way of life and thus to build up God's rule in the hearts of men. This meant, as Paul himself taught, 'righteousness and peace and joy.' Their lives were marked by superior morality, for the times, by self-sacrificing effort to were so far in advance of other countries. When Sir Robert Peel shed tears and left the Tory party and joined the free traders to take the duties off the people's bread, the Tories, getting into power said, 'You free traders took off the duties and gave us cheaper wheat; we will make a law to reduce the hours of work and punish you stupid Liberals.' History repeats itself and when the Lawrence mill owners said that they would not have a 54-hour Democrat measure they were just like the British Tories, playing politics.

As to the present strike or half-strike, or both, in Lawrence, I have no sympathy with the workers who say that they will not work with people who don't belong to the I. W. W. Just as well say that everybody must go to a certain church or wear clothes of a certain color.

Employees have a right to hire people and ask no questions about I. W. W. or X Y Z, and this dictation as to who are to work is simply absurd.

In reading the news from Belgium where strikes are also in fashion, it is the clerical or church party that the strikers are against, and Belgium, a small, thickly-populated, prosperous country, is in a bad way with strikes.

After the coal strike they have a dock laborers' strike in England; the Tories playing politics again as usual. Mr. Asquith's government is trying to pass a home rule bill for Ireland; to both Asquith the Tories are doing all they can to keep the dockers' strike going to annoy the government. They did the same thing during the coal strike and voted against the government bill which settled the coal quarrel.

It is sad to see intelligent American men playing politics as they are doing in Chicago today. Like boys with dangerous firecrackers some of them will get their fingers burned.

help their fellow-men and by courageous loyalty to what they believed was the will of God. They considered themselves co-workers with God in promoting His kingdom. The chief emphasis for them in the church was not the organization, for that was very simple at first and changed with the changing needs of the increasing number of believers. Nor was it on formulated statements of doctrine; these came later in the great discussions of later years; but their chief emphasis was upon acceptance of Jesus' leadership and upon work for the life and truth he lived and taught.

"Whatever reason for criticism and condemnation the church may have brought upon itself in later days by its human weakness, its inconsistencies, its thirst for power, and its departure from its true aim, its foundation principles and its object have not changed. The church in Paul's mind was the company of those who were living and working for the establishment of the principles taught by Jesus Christ.

"The American nation in which we believe, which we love, for which we are glad to live and in whose defense some of you have endangered your lives, is not the company of office-seeking politicians, is not the zealous advocates of this or that party doctrine, is not the discordant Republican or Democratic National Convention delegates, though all these call themselves American citizens. The real American nation is the body of people in village or city, white or black, or red or yellow, who anywhere and everywhere are loyal to the foundation principles of our government and are seeking to make it a nation of true freedom, justice and equal rights for all.

"In spite of the disgraceful spectacle of political rivalry our nation has given the world in the past three months, we still believe in the nation, and with all the more loyalty and earnestness should we live and work for its edification because of the dangers to which it is exposed from within.

"The church of Paul's mind, the real church of today, is not the members who strive for temporal power or popularity, or who hold dogmas or customs as superior to character, or who, indifferent to its high ideals, are untrue to God and their fellowmen; but it is the men and women who in humble or in exalted position, in ease or in difficulty, whether praised or blamed, whether their names are on the earthly church roll or not, are day by day striving to be loyal to God and to their fellowmen and to bring God's kingdom on earth.

"In spite of all the failures of the church at times to be true to its principles and aim, in spite of all the weakness and meanness and inconsistency and sin found in the lives of some professed churchmen, the true church is still the company of God-serving, humanity-loving men and women, who are seeking to let God have His way with them and to win this earth for Him.

"When Paul writes 'Seek that ye may excel to the edifying of the church,' as I understand him, he advises us to use whatever excellence we can acquire to promote such principles and aims. It allows wide difference in personal opinions and in methods of work; its members may prefer to group themselves under different names, and to use different forms of organization and of ritual, but the church as the body of God-serving, humanity-loving men and women seeking to promote God's kingdom is a desirable—to me the most desirable—object for the service of all our talents, and the chief means of lifting our race to its highest health, happiness, character and destiny.

"Its fundamental principle is loyalty to God—the allegiance of the individual to God's will. And just here comes the step which admits us to our third degree of 'Master Workman.' It is in giving God the guidance of our lives, in making His will our chief aim, in seeking excellence, in making ourselves helpful to others under His direction, as co-workers with him in lifting our race to its highest attainments. One may seek excellence, one may use his powers for others without reference to God's will and even without a belief in a supreme being; but the usefulness can be gained only as sought under the guidance of our Creator and in co-operation with Him in His work for humanity. The great Master Himself said—'seek no mine own will but the will of the Father which hath sent me. John V: 30. When a person lets God take the helm of his life; when he makes it his chief business to follow God's laws in his whole nature, as far as he can discern them; when he accepts the privilege of partnership with Him in His work for the race; then he takes his third degree and becomes a real 'Master Workman.' Then his life can reach its highest excellence and greatest usefulness.

"Robert Louis Stevenson gives us suggestive hints of his experience in some of his letters. In one to his father, he wrote: 'I am climbing the bare stairs of duty day by day.' In a later letter, after strenuous mental conflict over life's true aims and greatest helps he wrote, 'No man may say he has made any success in art until he can write across the page of his journal, 'Enter God.' May we not say that no man can reach true success in the art of living until he allows God to enter and to take His rightful control? The business of living is perplexing and hazardous for every human being until he lets God enter to guide and use him as He will.

"Blessed the privilege! Great results when a person thus seeks to improve himself and to help his fellowmen as a co-worker with God in bringing His kingdom on earth!

"When the apprenticeship of earth is over and his degrees of personal excellence, personal helpfulness and personal loyalty to God have been taken, he will be advanced in due time to the Grand Lodge of the spirit life to enjoy its eternal progress and blessings.

"Members of St. Matthews lodge, A. F. and A. M.: This Free church of Andover welcomes you to this house and this hour of public worship for the celebration of your St. John's Day anniversary. It is a day of inspiring memories to you in the history of your order.

"Your organization is founded upon principles which, if followed, tend to promote excellence of life, brotherly kindness, and loyalty to God. Fidelity to such principles must make better men, better neighbors, better citizens.

"We welcome you as allies in the help of our fellowmen. As a church we believe in the principles which form the basis of your order. We emphasize more positively than you can do in your organization the individual's personal relationship to God and the leadership of Jesus Christ. Yours in a limited fraternity for mutual help; ours is a fellowship seeking to embrace every member of the race and unite them into one family as children of God. But we can join hands in our common aim of bringing a better manhood, a closer and more helpful brotherhood and a greater loyalty to God and to all truth. Before us both lie inspiring opportunities for service in such an age and land as ours when fidelity to high principles is so much needed in private, business, social and political life. If we are both loyal to our principles and opportunities, what a power we can be for promoting righteousness and peace and joy in Andover!

"May this privilege of united worship today help us all to live and work more earnestly for personal excellence, brotherly kindness and the coming of God's kingdom on earth. Amen.

Squantum Aviation Meet

Miss Harriet Quimby, who has won worldwide fame as the first woman aviatrice to fly across the English channel, and Miss Blanch Stuart Scott, known the world over as the "Tomboy of the Air," will fly at the third annual Boston aviation meet to be held at the Harvard field, Squantum, beginning June 29.

The two women will compete against each other and will enter many of the events with the male aviators. One of the features of the meet will be a speed race every day between Miss Scott and Miss Quimby. The latter flies a powerful 70 h.p. Bleriot monoplane in which she can carry one passenger. Her machine attains a speed of seventy-five miles an hour under good conditions and she is considered one of the greatest operators of this type of monoplane in the world. A Martin biplane in which is installed a 75 h.p. Curtiss engine is the equipment used by Miss Scott. She will bring to Boston with her two other machines similar in nature so as to be prepared in case of any accident.

With Miss Scott will come her teammate, Glenn L. Martin. Manager W. A. P. Willard has also received a signed contract from Frank Coffey, who flies a Wright hydro aeroplane. Robert A. Fowler, a Wright operator who flew across the continent, will make his first appearance in Boston at the meet.

Entries have been received from Lincoln Beachy, the world's greatest aviator; Hugh A. Robinson, the man who demonstrated the Curtiss hydro-aeroplane to the Russian and French governments; George W. Beatty, a well-known Wright flyer; Frank J. Terrill of Worcester, who flies a headless Curtiss, and Lieut. T. Dewitt Milling, the United States Army aviator, who won the tri-state biplane race in a Burgess-Wright machine in last year's meet. At least fifteen aviators will compete for the prizes. Manager Willard expects to have entries from several foreigners within the next few days.

The work on the transformation of the field is progressing rapidly. One hundred workmen have, for the past ten days been plowing and harrowing a half-mile getaway which will run at right angles to the one used at the previous two meets. The hangars which will accommodate thirty machines are being constructed on the getaway. Sixteen carloads of grandstand which will seat over 15,000 people are now on the way from Washington, D. C. This portable stand will be the largest one ever erected in New England.

The great feature of this meet will be the popular prices. Admission to the field will be exceptionally low, and the prices of the grandstand seats will be within the reach of everyone.

ATTRACTIONS AT THE THEATRES

Boston Theatres

Majestic—"The Third Degree." Tremont—"Little Miss Fix-It." Park—"Rainy Hunt Pictures." Castle Sq.—"Charley's Aunt."

TREMONT

Alice Lloyd began the third week of her stay at the Tremont theatre last evening in "Little Miss Fix-It." Each week she alters her repertoire of songs.

PARK

The Paul J. Rainey African hunt pictures are now in their seventh week at the Park theatre and seem destined to last out the summer months.

CASTLE SQUARE

"Charley's Aunt," is the farce-comedy chosen by Mr. Craig to bring the season at the Castle Square to a close this week. The story revolves around the loves and the antics of two Oxford undergraduates.

MAJESTIC

Rural plays have always had a peculiar fascination for Boston theatre-goers, a fact which explains Lindsay Morison's penchant for presenting them as often as possible. The one he has selected for his stock company at the Majestic theatre next week is "York State Folks," written by Arthur Sidman.

"York State Folks" appears to possess a charm which may be said to verge on fascination. While it does not contain any tragic situations, does not exploit any so-called social problems, and has no theatrical clap-trap whatever, it has the innate power to hold the audience with intense interest from the rise of the curtain to the close of the last act. It is clean, wholesome and elevating and full of delightful human interest. The people whom you meet in "York State Folks" are perfectly natural, and you instinctively feel that you have met them before. This probably accounts for the indescribable charm which the drama has for those who witness it.

The full strength of the Morison company will be used in the presentation, including all the favorites.

LAWRENCE

The chief news of the week has centered around the various commencement festivities of the city schools. The annual graduation of the Lawrence High School took place Wednesday afternoon in the city hall, commencing at two o'clock. A fine program of exercises was carried out. Obituary

MRS. MARY A. FESSENDEN

Mrs. Mary A. (Malcolm) Fessenden died Tuesday night, June 18, after a long illness, at her home on Andover street. The deceased was born in China, Me., March 5, 1840. She came to Ballardvale when fourteen years of age and with the exception of a few months has always resided here. She was an active member of the Congregational church with which she united when very young, and of the Sunday school for many years. She was also a member of Ballardvale lodge, No. 105, I. O. G. T., in which she took a deep interest. She was a woman of sterling worth and will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends, by whom she was held in high esteem.

Mrs. Fessenden leaves three sons, Daniel H. Poor of Ballardvale, Edmund M. Fessenden of Lawrence and George M. Fessenden of Winsted, Conn.

Funeral service was held at her late home Friday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. A. H. Fuller, who paid an eloquent tribute to the life and character of the deceased. Mrs. Marion Stafford Harlow of New York sang two solos, "Will there be any stars in my crown" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," in a tender and sympathetic manner. Interment was in the South cemetery where committal services were held. Hersev Kendall, J. H. Clark, H. J. Gardner, and Herbert Clark acted as bearers. Many beautiful flowers about the casket silently manifested the love and esteem in which Mrs. Fessenden was held. The floral offerings consisted of a pillow, inscribed "Mother," from her sons; spray of laurel, George M. Fessenden; spray of carnations, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith and Mrs. Mary S. Lowe; spray of carnations and sweet peas, Sadie M. Kent; spray of peonies, Harold Marsh; spray of roses and sweet peas, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Riley; spray of tea roses and sweet peas, Mrs. Ida L. Hayes; spray of sweet peas, Miss Lillie Bottomley; spray of tea roses and carnations, Ballardvale lodge, I. O. G. T.; design of white pinks, Lawrence Good Templars; spray of pink roses, Congregational church; spray of pinks and snapdragon, Congregational Sunday school.

MRS. MARY AGNES SHAW

Mrs. Mary Agnes (Holmes) Shaw, wife of William Shaw, passed away at her home on Andover street, Friday afternoon, June 21, after a long illness which she bore with great patience.

Mrs. Shaw was born in this village fifty-two years ago and had always made her home here. In her girlhood she united with the Union Congregational church and throughout her life was deeply attached to it. Never strong physically, she was unable to enter into the work of the church as heartily as she would have liked, but was connected with the various organizations and gave them her fervent sympathy and aid. She possessed a deep religious nature and was always interested in the welfare of others, and her kindly manner drew to her a large circle of loving friends.

Mrs. Shaw is survived by her husband, and two sisters, Miss Nellie H. Holmes of Ballardvale and Miss Sarah McDonald of Chicago.

The funeral services were held at her late home on Monday afternoon and were conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. H. Fuller, assisted by Rev. Francis E. Clark and James L. Hill, who have long been associated with Mr. Shaw in Christian Endeavor work. More than twenty persons connected with the Christian Endeavor office in Boston were present at the funeral. A profusion of floral tributes showed the esteem in which she was held. The burial was in Spring Grove cemetery where the committal service was conducted by her pastor. The bearers were David Charles, J. Edwin and Irving R. Shaw. The casket was embedded in a mass of pink and white sweet peas, and the many beautiful floral tributes showed the affection and esteem in which Mrs. Shaw was held, not only in this community but by a wide circle of friends. They were as follows:

Wreath rosebuds, Mr. Shaw's brothers' families; pillow roses, Miss Nellie Holmes; spray roses, Mrs. Sara McDonald; basket roses, Gardner and Doris Shaw; carnation spray, Mr. and Mrs. Elden Fleury, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Shaw, Mrs. Benjamin Shaw; spray roses, Ballardvale Congregational church; spray carnations and snapdragon, Congregational Sunday school; spray roses, Ladies' Aid society; basket sweet peas, Junior society; spray carnations, Christian Endeavor society; spray roses, Mr. Davies' family; bouquet roses, Miss Rosalie Wood; spray roses, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller; spray carnations, Mr. and Mrs. Amos B. Resolutions on the Death of Mary A. Fessenden

Whereas—Our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well, has removed from our circle to the Heavenly Home, our beloved sister and chaplain, Mrs. Mary A. Fessenden, therefore

Resolved—That we, the members of Ballardvale Lodge, No. 105, I. O. G.

T., do cherish most gratefully the memory of one who by her untiring devotion to our Lodge of which she was a charter member, and our order, for many years, by her genial nature, and by her consistent Christian character had won, and for so long held a large place in our hearts. We desire to express our gratitude that we were permitted so long to enjoy her friendship and the inspiration of her life and labors. While we shall so keenly miss her, faith assures us that hers is the eternal gain.

Resolved—That we extend to our Brother Poor and the other relatives our heartfelt sympathy, with the prayer that the God of all comfort may furnish them with grace sufficient for their day.

Resolved—That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of our Lodge, be sent to the family of our deceased sister, and also be published in the Andover Townsman.

A FAMOUS BEACON.

The Navesink Light, Near Sandy Hook, Is a Wonder.

The most powerful light in America is housed on a promontory near Sandy Hook, 250 feet above the beach, where it acts as a safeguard to all ships entering or leaving the harbor of New York. It is called Navesink light and is of 95,000,000 candle power. At fifteen or twenty miles its flash is as pointed and brilliant as a star. On a perfectly clear night its shaft of light can be seen 100 miles at sea. When it was erected it was operated at twice its present candle power. But ocean pilots objected to its strength, saying that so amazing an electric flash actually blinded them and interfered with their work. Uncle Sam heard the prayer of the pilots and turned down his pet lamp to 95,000,000 candle power.

The amount of oil consumed by the engine that provides the power for the light is only one gallon and seven-eighths an hour. That is the astonishing thing to the unscientific visitor—the comparatively small expense and effort required to maintain so great a light. There are two fair sized dynamos and two oil engines. One set is always kept in reserve. Of course the tremendous candle power is developed by means of a great lens, made in France. The lens weighs seven tons and a half, is seven inches thick and rests in mercury. It is revolved with ease.—Saturday Evening Post.

Purely Mental.

Mrs. Holden had been blessed with remarkable eyesight all her life. It was a great trial to her when at the age of seventy-two she was obliged to put on "reading glasses." "But they are really becoming to you, Aunt Hilda," said a gentle niece by way of consolation.

"No, they aren't," said Mrs. Holden, with her usual scorn for compliment. "Anybody's eyes look better without a glass in front of 'em, and you know it." "But you couldn't read without them," ventured the niece, "and you love."

"I could, too, read without 'em," said the old lady, refusing to be soothed. "I could read most as well as ever, but I couldn't sense it all—that's the only trouble."—Youth's Companion.

England's Largest House.

The proud distinction of being the largest house in England is generally accorded to Lord Fitzwilliam's Yorkshire seat, Wentworth Woodhouse. Of this house it is said that the three principal entrances are so far distant from each other that visitors are advised to bring three hats with them, one to be kept at each point of egress. A house which is 600 feet long, has a hall in which two average suburban villas could be comfortably placed and boasts a room for every two days of the year is certainly large enough to satisfy any reasonable ambition.—Exchange.

"However did you reconcile Adele and Mary?"
"I gave them a choice bit of gossip and asked them not to repeat it to each other."—Fliegende Blätter.

Only One Exception.

Teacher—How is it that you don't know your lesson? Boy—I can't learn it. Teacher (angrily)—If it were not for me you'd be the biggest blockhead on earth.—Exchange.

26, to Miss Caroline A. Rey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rey of Springfield, at the home of the bride. Miss Rey was formerly a teacher in the Punchard school, and during the past year has been the head of the language department at the Stamford High School, Stamford, Conn.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. Skinner of Waltham, in the presence of about seventy-five guests. The bride wore white mesaline, trimmed with embroidered net, and carried lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss M. Winnie Burr, sister of the groom, whose gown was of orchid lavender silk trimmed with chiffon. Her bouquet was lavender sweet peas. The best man was the bride's brother, Wm. K. Rey. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was preceded by her two little nephews, Marshall Rey and George Draper, as flower boys. The ushers were Will Caldwell of Boston, Fred Schultz of Jersey City, N. J., Albert Smith of Rochester, N. Y., John Bentz of Lansing, Mich., John Eadie of Toronto, Ont., M. C. Knapp of Kansas City, Mo., and Fred Westman and L. K. Buddington of Springfield.

After a wedding trip to Nova Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. Burr will return to Andover and take up their residence on Elm street.

CONNOLLY—O'BRIAN

Thomas Connolly of Brechin terrace, a native of Cookstown, Ireland, and Miss Minnie O'Brien of Pearson street, a native of Cork, Ireland, were united in marriage on Thursday evening in St. Augustine's church by the Rev. B. F. Keith in Control of High Class Vaudeville in America

By what is said to be the biggest theatrical deal ever put through in America, a deal involving many millions of dollars, and over 200 theatres reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, B. F. Keith's million dollar theatre in Boston, long acknowledged to be the most beautiful theatre in the world, becomes beyond all dispute the head centre of vaudeville in the entire country. B. F. Keith, who by the purchase of eight theatres in New York brought the deal about, is a New Englander.

The new combination of vaudeville interests and Mr. Keith's additional theatres recently acquired will make possible a wonderful coast to coast circuit. Such a circuit means bigger and better vaudeville, and Boston is to be the center. While the business of the circuit is carried on in New York, the beautiful B. F. Keith theatre in Boston will be the general headquarters of Mr. Keith, and will now, more than ever before, receive all the best attractions in the world. B. F. Keith's Boston theatre is the fashion plate of a modern up-to-date vaudeville theatre, and also for the best possible type of vaudeville attractions. Together with his wonderful theatre in Boston, Mr. Keith is also represented in New England with theatres at Providence, Portland, Lowell and Lynn.

During the summer and fall season Mr. Keith has arranged a list of vaudeville attractions which will surpass any previous programs ever produced in America. The first of these will start the week of July 1, when the famous Harvard, Schubert and Weber Quartets, known as the "Shriners' Choir," will be heard in the stupendous production of "The Meistersingers' Camping Out." This act is one of rare beauty and excellence.

BALKED THE BULL.

Presence of Mind That Saved the Life of a Little Child.

A regiment of the German army resting in a country road was appalled to see a great bull madly pursuing a little child in a field near by and yet so far away that the child could not be reached in time to save it nor yet saved by the shooting of the animal.

The bull had his horns down, and all the soldiers were horrified to see that in another moment the child must be gored to death. For an instant no one seemed to know what to do, and then the drum major shouted to the buglers of the band, who stood near with their instruments in their hands, to sound a loud blast. They looked aghast.

"Sound, I say, for God's sake, to save the child!" repeated the drum major.

Then the buglers blew a blast at the top of their lungs. The drum major knew that animals of that species were so much affected by strange and high pitched musical sounds that they seemed compelled to imitate them. This bull proved to be no exception to the rule.

As soon as he heard the bugle blast he paused in his pursuit of the child, glanced toward the band, raised his head and began to bellow madly. The buglers kept up as high and discordant a tumult as they could, and meantime soldiers were running to the rescue of the child.

Before the bull had finished his attention to the bugles the child was in a place of safety.—New York Tribune.

STOCKINGS OF SILK.

The First Pair Queen Bess Wore Made a Hit With Her Majesty.

Up until the time of Henry VIII. stockings were made out of ordinary cloth. The king's own were made out of yak wide taffeta. It was only by chance that he might obtain a pair of silk hose from Spain. His son, Edward VI., received as a present from Sir Thomas Gresham "a pair of long silk stockings." For some years longer silk stockings continued to be a great rarity. Says Stow:

"In the second year of Queen Elizabeth, both her silk woman, Mistress Montague, presented her majesty with a pair of black knit stockings for a New Year's gift, which after a few days' wearing pleased her highness so well that she sent for Mistress Montague and asked her where she had had them and if she could help her to any more, who answered, saying, 'I made them very carefully, of purpose only for your majesty, and, seeing these please you so well, I will presently set more in hand.'"

"Do so," quoth the queen, 'for indeed I like silk stockings so well, because they are pleasant, fine and delicate, that henceforth I will wear no more cloth stockings.'

"And from that day up to her death the queen never wore cloth, but only silk stockings."—New York Herald.

Ant Colonies.

An ant nest or colony arises from eggs laid by one or more "queens." The developing young are tended by the sexless neuters, or "workers." The maggots, or larval ants, are fed by them, often nourished out of the nurses' mouths, and are as carefully watched in respect of the temperature and other conditions of the nurseries as are infantile human beings. When full development occurs the pupae change into ants, which are either winged or wingless. The latter are the "neuters," or workers. They may develop big jaws and appear as the "soldiers" of the colony. Those which are winged are the founders of new colonies. They are of both sexes, and they produce the eggs whence the new generations will be evolved.
